

Mrs. Grahn’s junior high Technology Applications students have been practicing in Microsoft Excel. Their assignment was to create a survey for their peers. Once they received an adequate number of responses they created spreadsheets, sorted the data alphabetically, counted the data with a formula, and created a pie chart for a visual representation of their data. The students were able to discern and synthesize information and used technology as a tool to accomplish tasks and be a life-long learner.

