

Mrs. Anderberg's elementary computer class is working hard on computer skills as they practice using the computer. They have been challenged to work hard at not only on the skills they know, but to branch out. The students are currently working hard to memorize the keyboard and finger placement and their skills with the mouse.

The students are exhibiting confidence, passion, and determination in their practice. The students are also collaborating with other students, leading, and solving problems.

